EDITORIAL

I have now (almost) caught up with the last decade of the twentieth century. I've bought a PC. Personal Computer, there aren't any bent coppers in Tunbridge Wells. If you've got copy on disk, there's now a fair chance my beast will be able to read it. I'm using MS Word 6 (for Windows) and if Word can accept your format so can I. In theory at any rate, but remember I'm a beginner. If, despite that caution, you still feel like giving it a go, give it a go. I don't like unnecessary typing any more than you do. 3½ inch floppies only. Floppies will be returned, probably with your Bulletin, and if you want to talk about it you know my number.

An incidental consequence of my purchase is the (one-off, I hope) lack of exclamation marks in this issue. In some ways my old technology was more flexible.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Richard,

As ever, pleased to receive the latest issue of the SCCU Bulletin which makes interesting reading.

First the gripe - my Bryan is spelt with a "y". Correct in the report of the BCF Council and wrong at the foot of the letter you quote from me. Well, I've lived with wrong spellings of my name for ages but I'd like to think you'd get it right. Kindly instruct your computer accordingly. Whilst on the name topic, please note the Hertfordshire Glynne is as typed here. Also on corrections, my information is that Alan Morris is Treasurer of the BPCF.

I appreciate your school teacher pedigree but I do prefer "clarify" (make clear) in letter rather than "amplify" (enhance/enlarge). Perhaps we should settle for clarify and amplify.

To clarify (?) the position, British Chess Congresses Ltd was set up some years ago to ensure that major events run by the Federation could be put through a limited company in case the finances proved to be a significant problem. It was used in connection with the World Championship match in London in the 80s. It is now essentially dormant though retained because it might be felt appropriate to reactivate the company at some point of time in the future. The Law requires all the bums on the accounts as BCC is a subsidiary company of Chess Centre Ltd (another story) hence the plan to transfer the shares to the Trustees which will cut the paperwork. Hooray.

Bryan (Fewell) Harpenden

Ed: - I prefer "amplify", but I'll agree to disagree. My information on Alan Morris is the same as Bryan's, now I've looked in the Year Book. I was quoting from notes taken quickly, and no doubt erroneously, at the meeting.

The computer is ashamed to have scored only 33% on two names it knew perfectly well. It has been replaced.

Dear Editor,

As a fairly regular participant in Weekend Major Tournaments I have noticed in recent years that the smallest section is invariably the Open Tournament. From my own observations I would like to suggest a possible reason for this and also what I consider may be a solution to the current under-participation in weekend tournaments by players rated 170-200.

The normal format in a weekend tournament is something like this: Under 100, Under 130, Under 160 and Open. With this structure in the Open Tournament there is often a grading gap of up to 100 points between the lowest and highest graded player in the Tournament. It is therefore possible that a player graded in the 170s could in Round 1 find himself playing an International Grandmaster. I believe most chess players want to play players who are within about 30 grading points of themselves. They do not want to participate in very one-sided matches playing players who are far too strong or far too weak.

The situation in most Opens played today is that three or four International Masters or Grandmasters will turn up and win all the prizes [including gading prizes? - Ed] leaving the players graded 170-200 with nothing to play for. These are the players who no longer participate in Opens. Indeed in two weekend tournaments this year my husband, graded 195, found himself in the lower half of the Round 1 draw.

However there is some evidence of a desire by these 170-200 graded players to participate in tournaments. For exmple at Exeter this year they made the top section 190 and under, and as a result had a considerable increase in entries.

I suggest we should look to the Weekend Tournaments in the USA for a solution to this problem. It is fairly common there for Weekend Tournaments to be organised as follows: Open, Under 2200 (200), Under 2000 (175), Under 1800 (150), Under 1600 (125), Under 1400 (100).

This structure of course caters for all players [? - Ed] and would bridge the gap that presently exists in UK Weekend Opens. I believe if adopted by tournament organisers in this country it would lead to a considerable increase in entries.

Dinah Norman Wokingham

Dear Bulletin,

In this year's British there was one woman competitor, Cathy Forbes. In last year's British U18 there was one girl competitor, Fiona Webster. Both were awarded the female title, on an elected-unopposed basis.

It was argued some years back that running a separate British Womens or Girls Championship held back female chess, and they should therefore run within the corresponding male events in future. Now the success of that policy can be seen in younger age-groups with Tania Sachdev becoming the first girl to win a British male [? - Ed] title outright, after both Harriet Hunt and Ruth Sheldon came close to doing so with a four-way and a two-way equal first in recent years.

But I am concerned the numbers of females peter out quite so dramatically in the older age-groups and in the British. To what purpose were separate Championships demolished if all that remains is a non-contested title?

So why are the numbers so low, and what can be done to change that situation? It seems particularly sad in Menchik Year that this should be so; an alien visiting us from Venus every fifty years might conclude things hadn't changed much: Menchik was normally the only woman in an all-male event. And there was Forbes, fifty years on. A couple of consciously more-females-than-usual events, because it is Menchik Year, do not a pattern break. Nor a mould.

The root problem is the policy adopted for many years by the BCF as regards coaching and opportunities being provided for only two or three girls in any one 5 or year secondary school generation. The good second-strings (the ones who get the European nomination but not the World) get ignored, left out and left behind at a crucial stage of their development. They emerge from the pack by puberty but unless head and shoulders above their contemporaries, don't get the big push that would make them in line (grade 180+) for qualifying for the British when they are adults. Their talents are allowed to wither on the vine. They stop and give up chess. And then it happens to the next generation.

And so, few girls get much beyond the plateau at about grade 150. I am glad BWCA is starting to develop coaching for the medium-strength girls, who have reached 110-130, but it will need the BCF to commit resources to take more of them the next milestones further, if significant numbers of females are to ever make it to the lofty heights of the British, or still be playing chess beyond the age of 25.

Bruce (Birchall) W11

Ed: - I still want to see those statistics. Is the percentage of female players above 150 smaller than the percentage of males above 150? I only ask. And is the answer the same if you ignore the younger juniors?

EUROPEAN CLUB CUP

Wood Green pulled out, as you probably know, on the reasonable ground that they didn't fancy playing mid-week in Croatia. Maidstone got a more sensible group in Eupen (Belgium) 14-16 October. Chris Howell has telephoned a report.

The Maidstone squad (roughly in board order, we should think) was John Emms, Chris Ward, Ian Watson, Neil Dickenson, Simon Bibby, Chris Howell, Paul Fenn, Jeffrey Titmas, Marcus Taylor and Jeremy Knowles. The last four are juniors. Maidstone kicked off well with a win against the Danish Champions Aarhus, helped by crucial wins from Dickenson and Fenn. This was only the second time an English team had won a round in the European Cup, and Aarhus were the victims the other time as well. Round 2 brought the inevitable: Bayern Munich, with 2500-ish GMs at the bottom end. Emms and Ward drew with Hubner and Yusupov but it was downhill from there. In the third and final round (it's a knockout except you play on) Maidstone imported some juniors and lost to Eupen. The group was won by Reykjavik, who beat Bayern Munich in the final. Maidstone's thanks are due to the BCF who not only paid the entry fee but also helped with admin.

We mentioned a while back that Maidstone might be playing in France this year. Nothing much has happened on this front but it's still a possibility for 1996.

MENCHIK MEMORIAL INTERNATIONAL at Maidstone 24-30 October 1994

was sponsored by the BCF, BWCA, Friends of Chess, KCCA and Pfizer Ltd. The field of 22 included 4 GMs, 5 Ims, 1 WGM and 2 WIMs. Unfortunately a high proportion of draws meant that only one title norm was achieved, despite the Crouch pairings: Harriet Hunt's fourth and final WIM norm. (The three she had already would probably have been good enough, but the fourth made sure.) Sorry if some of the players' countries went astray in the telephone.
 1 J Levitt 6/9; 2-5 NF Dickenson, B Lalic (Croatia), P Velicka, CG Ward 5½; 6-13 D Bronstein (Russia), JM Emms, J Hajkova-Maskova (Czech Republic), S Lalic, NL McDonald, C McNab (Scotland), SW Reuben, S Saljova (Cz) 5; 14-17 PD Fenn, H Hunt, A Ivanov, I Lauterbach 4½; 18-19 S Bibby, P Fink (Germany) 4; 20 A Hunt 3½; 21 J Houska 1; 22 J Ho ½

MUSWELL HILL U160 5th November 1994: 37 pl

1 Evangelos Andreacos (Imperial College) 5½/6; 2-3 Alfredo Luaces (Kings Head), Jonathan Benyunes (unattached) 5... Junior Matthew Cave, Costas Harris (both Barnet Knights), Michael Duggan (Richmond) 4

"We made the mistake of allowing ungraded players to win the money - foolishly left an escape clause off the entry form, and when everyone had entered it was too late. I am despondent about our future. This was an attempt to solve our financial problems, and although we made a small profit it was not nearly enough. Too many people have jumped onto the bandwagon of these one day tournaments and the market is now flooded. Short of asking individual members to keep us afloat, I really can't see where the rent is going to come from." - Wil Ransome (Sec, Muswell Hill CC)

Quote

"It is perhaps easiest to imagine that the top half by grading (18 players in this case) are given an imaginary one-point start. Thus, in our example, the top 9 are paired against the next 9 with 19 to 29 paired against 30 to 40. In round two players in the top half retain the extra point for pairing purposes - thus a player in the lower half with 1 point may play one in the upper half with 0. The theory is that in round 3 players in the lower half with two points will be paired against players in the top half with two points etc. However the players in this event hadn't read the script..."

- An anonymous organiser, on the Writtle Congress pairings

ROUND THE COUNTIES

Not a lot of news. But:

ESSEX Championship was decided, or nearly, at the Writtle Congress in July 1994. Andrew Lewis and Russell White tied for first place and we daresay they'll have played off by now.

KENT: A player who didn't wish to be named has asked us to report that Chris Howell has become Maidstone Champion by beating Ian Watson 1½-½ in the final. OK, Chris?

JUNIOR NEWS

13th ANDREW RUSSELL MEMORIAL CUP at Reading 8th October 1994

was a two-round jamboree for teams of 12. 1 Richmond 20/24; 2 Wilts 13½; 3 Bucks 13; 4 Berks 1½. Results Nigel Dennis

RICHMOND/SCCU JUNIORS played four matches in October against a visiting Szombathely side. (Of course you do. The Bulletin got ticked off a couple of years ago for spelling it "Budapest".) We've not looked all the English players up but they certainly include a sprinkling of non-Richmond guests. Scores (Richmond first): 24 Oct 5-5; 26 Oct 6½-3½, 5½-4½; 27 Oct 4-6.

RICHMOND JUNIOR sponsored by St George Developments Ltd 5-6 November 1994

Under 18 (28 pl) 1 Liam Bayley (Surbiton) 5/6; 2-4 Ruth Bates (Richmond), Chris Kreuzer (Teddington), Thomas Dougherty (W8) 4½...

Under 12 (54 pl) 1 Matthew Feld (Cobham) 5½/6; 2-3 Luke Keegan (Twickenham), Matthew King (Cobham) 5...

Please tell the Editor if you spot errors in the tables.

Most match captains have sent their results - thank you - and their reward, for each match, is a Star by the county's name. One man, but only one, has done his best to confuse me by putting the home side on the right. Most people are giving the players' grades; I don't know whether the exceptions just can't be bothered or actually aren't in sympathy with the publication of grades. Can't think why they wouldn't be. It really is helpful if both sides give grades; typing them in afterwards, if your opponents' version arrives later with them on, is more bother.

If a late substitute is put in, make sure you amend the score sheet. One match captain didn't, this time. I typed the name he gave, and it was only by chance that I spotted the discrepancy when the other team's version arrived some weeks later. (Well, not quite by chance. I was going through the match typing all the grades in.)

The single-initial diehards can now claim, with some justice, that the player's grade will almost certainly identify him accurately. So long as the match captain has identified him accurately, and given the grade. Must admit the Bulletin still finds single initials irritating, especially when it knows perfectly well what the full initials are but doesn't feel entitled to insert them because, after all, it could be a different player.

Lists of new recruits to your team are, I suppose, less necessary for the same reason. But one county has taken the trouble to send a list, and it appears on the next page. With the caution that BCF reference numbers are easy to mistype and the Bulletin's new word processor is no more equipped to validate the check "digits" than his old one was.

MIDDX: Following a recent meeting Bob Turnham is County President again, and Bruce Birchall is no longer captaining the U100 team. No, we don't know what's going on. The new U100 captain has not yet been appointed; their next match isn't till February but for the moment it is suggested that you contact Bob Turnham: 48 Westland Drive, Brookmans Park, Hatfield, Herts AL9 7UQ 0707 651986.

BCF MANAGEMENT BOARD

Didn't think you were going to escape this, did you? The MB met 19.11.94.
Nigel Short etc. To cut it, well, short, NDS and the BCF have more or less made up any differences there may or may not have been between them and have issued a joint statement to that effect. NDS has agreed to play in the Olympiad even though Murray Chandler's the non-playing captain, and FIDE seem likely to restore his rating. One or two delegates from the MCCU and Manchester & District opposed the statement hotly.
FIDE elections. The MB's discussions were mercifully confidential. "There are a variety of rumours relating to the possible collapse of one or more of the tickets."
Development Unit. Not sure that it's ever done anything much, but a ballot for membership was topped by Chris Howell who thinks it's time it did.
DFE Grant. The Federation has submitted an activities report for 1993-4 and is to submit a three-year work plan by the 9th December. We gather the Department favours developing international events in England rather than sending people to Tirana for their norms. And so say all of us.

Sponsorship. An agreement has been reached in principle for sponsorship of the Counties Championship (Open section only).

Minor Counties. John Poole is finalising proposals for a new definition of MCs.

FIDE GENERAL ASSEMBLY 1994

In case you're interested, here's some of the proposals on the table.

1. Make the World Championship an annual KO.
2. (SWR) Establish a World Club Championship (starting Hastings, August 1995) and a World Amateur Championship (starting Hastings 1995-6).
3. Modify the title and rating regulations (various proposals). And introduce new titles - all SWR proposals except the last - of Super GM (ideas invited for the name), Continental Master (2200 level, cf 2300 for FM), International Organiser, and Senior International Arbiter.
4. Shorten the default period to 15 minutes (Swedish Federation).
5. Revise the Blitz (meaning 5-minute or thereabouts) rules. This is from the Finnish Central Chess Federation and the draft's English is less than felicitous. "Quick-play Finnish", CIH said, and we wished we'd said it. Amazingly, the draft has it that in order to win on time you must be able to demonstrate a forced mate. That's how they're defining "mating force". We've seen something like this before, possibly in the rushed draft that went out (was it?) last time round. We can't believe it's intended but, new or not, it's very explicit in the Finnish draft.

Oh, and the WELCH REPORT. It's been delayed by unforeseen events, but is expected imminently. We understand that the SCCU Executive will soon discuss it.

There wasn't going to be a page 13, but after unexpected delays with collation we can offer three new match results, and a letter amplifying - if not clarifying - something we said on page 10. Plus our apologies for being late.

The matches below have not gone into the league tables on page 5.

our informant (page 5) was wrong.

Dear Richard,

28.11.94

Further to Tony Suttill's letter which was published in the September 1994 SCCU Bulletin.

I am happy to report that the MCCA has resolved its administrative problems. The special meeting of Council which was held on Friday 25th November 1994 voted to remove Bruce Birchall from the Middlesex U10 captaincy and as a consequence Bruce does not hold any position on the Middlesex County Committee. At the same meeting I was re-elected President and Lance Levine was elected Treasurer as Simon Spivack was unwilling to resume those duties.

I very much hope that we will be able to find a replacement U100 captain as I am sure that we do not want to withdraw the team when it is halfway through the season.

It would be naive of me to think that all our troubles are now behind us, but I think that the procedural changes which were introduced at the meeting on Friday should ensure a smoother path in the future.

Regards,

Bob Turnham

President, Middlesex CCA

OFFICIAL CHESS YEARBOOK 1995 has just appeared, in its new Batsford guise. No, I didn't get the name wrong, they've changed it. And the pages are smaller, and the county entries are liable to start on the last half-line but one of a page, and I'd complain if I was Beds. Some things are missing and some have been added, including a "magazine style section" - why "style"? - with lots of annotated games. It's not the way I'd do it but I'm not Batsfords, and there's something there for everyone.
